Question from Frank Schmidt, U of Missouri-Columbia:
   Please define "accountability" and give an example.

Charles Miller:
   I think of an accountability system as measuring the performance or outcomes of a system or institution, which contains consequences or results. Those consequences can include rewards and recognition, or penalties.